

Projeto Investir na Capacidade

Agrupamento de Escolas de Nelas

Nelas - PIC IV

The 'Investing in Capacity' project is a response to students with skills that are not always perceived as such, because the mismatch between their skills and what the school requires leads to demotivation and results far short from what they could be. Especially because these students with more skills have shortage areas that urgently need to be developed. In fact, in schools, we often have two situations: (i) the case of students with more capabilities, which do not develop these skills because, often, teacher's attention turns to those who do not learn (absolutely understandable option) (ii) and the case of those students who are recognized as having skills in some areas, but who are absolutely unmotivated, and their academic results are weak.

This project is aimed at both of these groups: we aim to develop the skills of excellence of the students selected for all teachers, after a careful process - closely supervised by APCS (Portuguese Association for Gifted Children) and according to criteria defined by this Association - by recognizing their exceptional abilities in certain areas, aiming at the same time developing the deficit areas in those same students. The ultimate goal is, in fact, the motivation of all of these students, turning this school into a reference school for excellence and contributing to the progress, at various levels, of our society.
